Questions to be answered by agencies after reviewing July 1959 draft of U.S. Government Correspondence Manual

1. Should the coverage of the manual be changed? That is, should any parts or chapters of the manual be omitted from a publication intended for Government-wide use by stenographers and typists? What subjects, if any, should be added?
2. What corrections or revisions, editorial or otherwise, should be made in the text of the present draft manual?
3. What other comments or suggestions do you have for improvement of this manual?
4. Would your agency be willing to use, in whole or in part a satisfactory revision of this manual when it is published. At some later time when your existing manual goes out of print?
